Increasingly in the public discourse there are references to the knowledge economy, knowledge society, knowledge workers and knowledge organisations. The argument is that knowledge is becoming the main economic resource, replacing the natural resources that drove the industrial revolution. The new knowledge economy is driven by knowledge development, innovation and highly skilled employees. Increasing investment in higher education and in universities is in line with this strategy and understanding. In an earlier book, Creating Collaborative Advantage edited with Richard Ennals, Professor Hans Christian Garmann Johnsen argued that it is knowledge that links social and economic processes. He believes that what is missing in the current discussion on innovation is a conceptualisation of exactly what knowledge is. In The New Natural Resource, he digs deeper into what it is and how it develops and subsequently leads to widespread change. The author argues that knowledge is inherently a social phenomenon. That is why social processes are closely linked to economic development, and why this relationship becomes even more apparent in the new knowledge economy. Knowledge is not an objective entity, established once and for all. Knowledge development is interrelated with values, norms, perceptions and interpretations. We need to know what the mechanisms are by which knowledge becomes legitimate, true and relevant.

As a university student exactly feel bored to reading. If their teacher inquired them to go to the library as well as to make summary for some e-book, they are complained. Just very little students that has reading's heart or real their interest. They just do what the instructor want, like asked to the library. They go to presently there but nothing reading significantly. Any students feel that looking at is not important, boring along with can't see colorful pictures on there. Yeah, it is to get complicated. Book is very important for yourself. As we know that on this period, many ways to get whatever we would like. Likewise word says, ways to reach Chinese's country. Therefore , this The New Natural Resource: Knowledge Development, Society and Economics can make you truly feel more interested to read.
