GOING THE EXTRA MILE! WRITE FASTER, WRITE BETTER!

For Those who Write, Market, and Sell eBooks

This book is unique because you will learn how to write efficiently, and how to write better by studying the “Efficiency Ratio” in the workplace, and applying it to your writing. You will learn how to “Be your own Boss,” in the true sense of the word – assigning tasks to yourself and completing them efficiently, and with quality.

Steve Preston, author of “Goals: Achieve Your Ambitions, Breakthrough Your Fears and Live the Life of Your Dream” and I are in a Master Mind Alliance of the sort described in Napoleon Hill’s, “Positive Mental Attitude: The Science of Success.” Each day, I emailed new chapters to Scott and these are his responses:

A fascinating insight into efficiency and productivity. I particularly like how you discuss management and labor with regard to writers and working with ourselves. This will be very significant content for any writer.

I think this is a wonderful method of organizing brainstorming ideas. I will not have an opportunity to try it today but will definitely try it out in the coming days.

Major accomplishment writing yesterday. It's great to see how you keep refining the process.

Again, great material. I can see myself taking a completely new approach over the coming months from the strategies you are outlining. You are producing extraordinary work, well done!

This is fantastic material! I can see you using this material way beyond books in the future. There is potential here to expand this information into bigger training programs for companies and businesses. You could expand it into video and audio as well as the written word. It may not be where you are intending to go with it, but the potential is certainly there. Keep up the good work.

That's a great story about Carl's Jr. I'm familiar with that chain even though we don't have them in Europe (I have toured the US many times). This whole efficiency ratio idea has really grabbed me.

The contrast from what you experienced there as opposed to where you volunteer could not be more profound. This material again as you say would be a great book subject and I love the idea of working in the field and writing while you are there doing your research. You really have your creativity and imagination working wonderfully.

If you get to the point where you are turning out a 50,000-page book in 180 hours, you will have an amazing output, and as far I can see will reach your targets and goals even quicker than you had earlier envisaged. I look forward to the open source book and the inspiration contained in it.

You are certainly inspiring me with your aspirations and research, great work!
